The International School of Hospitality Announces Hospitality Career Explorations Event

Las Vegas, August 19, 2010 – The International School of Hospitality (TISOH) announces a Hospitality Career Exploration event to be held at the school on September 1, 2010 from 6-8pm. On this evening, faculty and industry professionals will be on hand to introduce potential career changers to opportunities in specific areas of hospitality including event planning, wedding coordination, concierge, hotel operations (front desk and housekeeping), human resources and more. The event is free and open to the public. The address is 3614 E Sunset Road, Las Vegas, NV 89120.

“Despite the economy, there are always jobs available within hospitality in specific niche areas. Furthermore, with a major new hotel opening in the coming months, the time is ripe for interested individuals to consider gearing up to meet future demand.” said Timothy Lam, the Executive Director of the school. “This evening allows potential hospitality industry workers to investigate and hear about the typical responsibilities of positions within the career field in order to determine the proper fit. They will also learn about ways in which to get their foot in the door for future opportunities.”

Attendees can attend anytime within the scheduled hours of 6 to 8pm. Individual attention will be provided to each.
