

Bio for Patti J. Shock

Patti J. Shock, CPCE, is the Academic Consultant for The International School of Hospitality. She holds the rank of Professor Emeritus from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, where she taught Catering and Conventions for over 25 years. Previously, she taught at Georgia State University for 10 years, and currently teaches online for Florida International University.

She has written several books, which are used widely in colleges worldwide.

Among her many awards, she was named the first NACE ICON from the National Association for Catering and Events, and was inducted into the Events Industry Council Hall of Leaders in 2014. Additional information is available on LinkedIn